First Lady Rebukes Dies Investigator

HITS 'PRISON TREATMENT' IN 'ISMS' PROBE

President's Wife Declares Witness Was Quizzed as If He Were Guilty.

SHE MAY RETURN

Adds Praise to Criticism by Declaring Inquiry's a Helpful One.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sharply criticized J. B. Matthews, chief investigator of the Dies committee, today for questioning a witness as though he were a "prisoner, considered guilty, being tried at the bar."

Mrs. Rosevelt's rebuke was made in her newspaper column, "My Day," after her third visit to committee hearings yesterday to listen to testimony by officials of the American Youth congress and other youth organizations.

In her column she again criticized the committee for not having notified witnesses sufficiently in advance to prepare all documentary evidence, but commended those members, "whom I have had the pleasure of observing," for their "genuinely courteous and helpful" attitude toward witnesses.

Except for the questioning by Matthews, Mrs. Roosevelt said that the hearings were a "heartening exhibition of government operating helpfully." But of Matthews, she said:

". . . His whole attitude, tone of voice and phraseology made one feel that a prisoner, considered guilty, was being tried at the bar.

Atmosphere Changed.

"I surmised that this impression was made on other people, for in a little while a gentleman came around and whispered in Mr. Matthews' ear. I have no way of knowing what was said and it may have been entirely irrelevant to the matters in hand, but in any case it was soothing to Mr. Matthews, for immediately the atmosphere changed. His voice was softer, his manners were more courteous."

The hearing Mrs. Roosevelt has been attending are those of a subcommittee investigating charges of alleged communistic influences in schools and colleges.

Finns' Army Head Issues Call For 'Fight to Death'

HELSINGFORS—(INS)—A stirring appeal to Finland's soldiers to fight to the death against Soviet aggression was issued today by Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustav von Mannerheim, commander-in-chief of the Finnish army.

"You are fighting for your homes and the fatherland," Von Mannerheim said in a special order of the day.

"Confidence in your leader is the first condition of success. You know me and I know you, and I know every soldier will do his duty."

Von Mannerheim led the "White army" which defeated the Bolshevists in Finland in 1918, and won the country's independence.

INVOKES 'MORAL' EMBARGO ON REDS

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today invoked a "moral embargo" against Soviet Russia for her ruthless bombing of Finland's civilian population.

A White House statement, naming no nation, but obviously aimed at Russia, called upon all American manufacturers to bear in mind the American government's policy of "wholeheartedly" condemning the bombing of civilians when negotiating contracts for export.

After a morning of consultation with Secretary of State Hull, Mr. Roosevelt released the following statement:

"The American government and the American people have for some time pursued a policy of wholeheartedly condemning the unprovoked bombing and machine gunning of civilian populations from the air.

"This government hopes, to the end that such unprovoked bombing shall not be given material encouragement in the light of recent recurrence of such acts, that American manufacturers and exporters of airplanes, aeronautical equipment and materials essential to airplane manufacture, will bear this in mind before negotiating contracts for the exportation of these articles to nations obviously guilty of such unprovoked bombing."

Double Parker Trails Copper And Gets Lost

COLUMBUS —(AP)— "All right buddy, let's go," barked Motorcycle Patrolman James Groson to a double-parked motorist from Lima, and drove on.

The driver followed, having heard that police here frequently take traffic law violators directly to headquarters. Blocks later Croson noticed the trailing motorist and explained his admonition was only a warning.

"If you're not going to arrest me," said the driver, "how about taking me back where you found me? I want to meet a man there and now I'm lost."

START CUT-OVER

Telephone Company Hooks Up 260 More Dial Phones.

The "cut-over" to dial service of 260 telephones in the district just east of Mansfield was under way today by employes of the Mansfield Telephone company in the final step of the firm's rural dial conversion program.

LeRoy Wittemire, general manager of the company, said that with the completion of the conversion Tuesday a new supplemental directory listing the number changes in the Mifflin exchange district as well as changes in Mansfield would be issued to approximately 15,000 company subscribers.

The conversion involves the expenditure of nearly $35,000 for the construction of a new sub-station on route 30, just east of the junction with route 39, and construction incidental to the change to dial telephones in that district, Wittemire said.

New Father Drops Cigars From Plane As Baby Arrives.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. —(AP)— It was Havanas from Heaven when Aviator William E. Michael became a father.

While Mrs. Michael hugged her new five-pound-12-ounce infant in a hospital, her husband flew over the city scattering hundreds of cigar-laden little parachutes made of diapers.

Stenciled on each parachute were the words:

"It's a girl."

REVIVE TRAFFIC DRIVE, TAG 462

Police Set Record In November, Issue Most Tickets of Any Month This Year.

A revived campaign against traffic violations during November resulted in 462 tags being issued by Mansfield police, a record for any month this year, police records showed today.

The number of yellow tickets attached to windshields of cars was five times the 92 citations issued in October when Police Chief Meade K. Bates said that parking laws "aren't being violated."

Bates had "no comment" to make today when asked if more emphasis had been placed on parking violations during the past month.

Collections from the tags also shot upwards last month, revenue from the violations totaling $491 as compared with a collection of $103 for the month previous.

The former record for traffic tags was 449 which were issued in February at the outset of what Bates termed a "sustained law enforcement program."

STRIKE CRIPPLES TROLLEY SYSTEM

Flint Walks as Transport Workers Lose Wage Hike Demand.

FLINT, Mich. —(INS)— Flint's transportation system was completely halted today by a strike of trolley coach workers.

Since most of the city's industrial buildings are closed Saturdays few workers were affected. Christmas shopping, however, was crippled by the halt of transportation.

The strike was called after CIO Transport Workers union officials conferred with the state labor board until early today. Refusal by the city of the union's demand for a 10 cent wage increased precipitated the strike.

FORMER O. S. R INMATE KILLED IN GUN BATTLE

Man Sought as Parole Violator Dies In Fight With Police In Iowa Town.

RELEASED HERE IN 1934

Fatally Shot as He Attempts To Resist Arrest; Sent Up From Muskingum County.

Robert Valentine, 26, a paroled Mansfield reformatory inmate wanted as a parole violator, was killed yesterday in a gun battle with police at Carroll, Iowa, authorities learned today.

Valentine, who left a trail of arrests through several midwestern states, was fatally shot while resisting officers as they attempted to arrest him, the Carroll police chief reported to Sheriff E. P. Long. Details of the shooting were not available.

The slain man used the alias of Arthur Boyd. He was paroled from the reformatory June 1, 1934 after serving slightly more than a year for grand larceny, reformatory records showed. He also was known as Arthur Baker.

Served Year Here.

He entered the reformatory May 23, 1933 from Muskingum county (Zanesville) under a one-to seven-year sentence. He was declared a parole violator Oct. 3, 1935.

Records show that he was arrested in August, 1937, in Parkersburg, W. Va.; in Windsor, Nebr., last spring and in Blair, Nebr., last July. Each time he was released after serving short sentences.

In his message to Sheriff Long the Carroll police chief requested information concerning Valentine's relatives so they could be informed of his death.

Reformatory records listed three sisters, Mrs. Vera Matthews of Columbus, Mrs. Bertha Elles of Zanesville and another in Akron whose name was not available.

Village Marshal Dies as Car Skids Near Loudonville

LOUDONVILLE—Fred G. Fox, 59, marshal of the village of Cortland, near Warren, was instantly killed here yesterday when his car skidded on the wet pavement and turned over an embankment.

Fox, with his wife were en route from Cortland to Florida where they had planned to spend the winter. When their car hit the brick paving at the corporation line on state route 3, the machine skidded, plunged over a small embankment and overturned. Mrs. Fox said. Luggage, which filled the back end of the car, fell forward on Fox.

An ambulance took the couple to the office of a local physician who said that Fox had been instantly killed. He had suffered a broken neck, and crushed chest and collar bone. Mrs. Fox was treated for lacerations about the head and face.

The body was taken to the Swank funeral home. Mrs. Fox returned to her home today with the body of her husband.

With a 12 per cent increase, Canton led cities reporting upward trends. Percentages of gain in other metropolitan areas were: Youngstown, 10 per cent; Akron, three per cent; Toledo, six per cent; Columbus, five per cent; Cleveland, five per cent; Cincinnati, three per cent; Dayton, four per cent.

Valiant Troops Recapture Port, Take Prisoners

Report Russians Lose Heavily During Fighting In South; Poorly Armored Soviet Tanks Riddled By Shells; Red Warship Sunk, One Damaged.

(By International News Service)

HELSINGFORS—Topping a series of successes on land and sea, Finland's small but potent army recaptured the strategic Arctic port of Petsamo from the Soviet invaders today, taking 150 prisoners and spurring the entire nation to even greater determination and resistance.

Official military advices confirmed the seizure of Petsamo, which had been raked by aerial bombs and artillery fire before its initial capture with the aid of infantrymen dropped from airplanes for the first time in the history of war.

At the same time, heavy Russian losses were reported on the Carelian isthmus in the south, where the Soviets' poorly armored tanks were riddled by Finnish shells, scores of them apparently being put out of action.

Finland's miniature "Maginot line" in Carelia, studded with tank traps and equipped with the most modern anti-tank guns, has proved a formidable stumbling block to the Russian advance, just as the coastal fortresses at Hango and elsewhere have proved thus far impregnable to the Soviet fleet.

One Russian warship is known to have been sunk by the Finnish batteries at Hango, while the 8,500-ton modern Soviet cruiser Kirov was struck squarely by a large calibre shell and severely damaged if not sent to the bottom.

A member of the Finnish general staff, returning to Helsingfors today from the Carelian front, was full of praise for the manner in which Finland's soldiers have answered the appeal of Commander-in-Chief Field Marshal Baron Carl Gutav Von Mannerheim for every man to do his duty in defense of his home and fatherland.

"I have never seen troops fight with such determination," the general said.

"Their attitude is one of ice-cold bitterness against the invaders. They are absolutely fearless and fighting splendidly, with the result that we have had great success."

While the main fighting continued in progress in Carelia, where the Russians apparently were being thrust back at each attempt to break the "Maginot Line" another battle of major proportions was shaping up in the north, only 18 kilometers (11 miles) from the Norwegian frontier. Few details were known.

The air raid sirens sounded again in Helsingfors today, but up to 3 o'clock this afternoon there had been no new aerial attacks. It was learned today that during yesterday's aerial assault, the pilot of one soviet bomber flew low over a Helsingfors suburb, opening his machine gun on a crowd of panic-stricken women and children.

He killed 20 of them and wounded another 36.

Almost two-thirds of Helsingfor's population has now been evacuated to the countryside, and the government of Premier Risto Ryti is expected to move out of the capital shortly, taking up headquarters in some secret spot.

The Germn steamer Donau arrived in Helsinfors harbor today to take out all Germans, Russians and Estonians.

Leaves Terijoki.

In accordance with long standing plans to be carried out in event of invasion, Finland has now abandoned Terijoki, and several other small villages in eastern Carelia. It was at Terijoki that the Russians announced establishment of a "Communist" government which has been recognized by Moscow.

Ryti's cabinet was in almost constant session in Helsingfors throughout the day.

Finding victory on the frontier difficult, the Soviet forces are preparing a large-scale air attack, according to the general belief prevailing in the anxious capital.

Facing privation and possibly death in the sub-Arctic cold, scores of thousands poured out of Helsingfors and other towns today. Compulsory evacution has been ordered for all cities and towns, but has not yet been put into effect in Helsingfors.

Snow began falling heavily during the night and the cold became intense.

As a result, fear was felt for the lives of some 150,000 men, women and children who fled on foot into the forests north of Helsingfors during the early air raids of the Russian campaign.

Tragedies in untold numbers were believed taking place along lonely forest roads, where some travelers reported exhausted mothers lying in snowy ditches with their children in their arms, nearing death from hunger and privation.

Up to noon today there were no new Soviet air attacks, but the city was frightened by a brief air raid alarm at 8:45 o'clock.

HOPEFUL: New Finn Premier Sees Possibilities Of Peace

(By United Press)

HELSINKI—(By Telephone to New York)—Risto Ryti, new premier of Finland, hopes to reach a diplomatic settlement with Russia despite its recognition of a Communist "Finnish government," he told the United Press today.

It was 7:30 a. m. as he spoke and dawn was breaking through the windows of his office. He had just come from a meeting of his cabinet which had lasted throughout the night.

"I have just heard that Russia has given full diplomatic recognition to the government organized by Communist supporters at Taricki," he said. "Despite this we still are hopeful that we can reach a settlement with the U. S. S. R. by negotiations. We do not consider the diplomatic outlook hopeless.

"We (he and his cabinet) discussed the possibility of negotiations and we agreed that if a settlement cannot be reached by negotiations we will fight on.

"Tell the American people we will not surrender.

"The Finnish people will fight to the last.

"This man Kuusinen (premier of the Russian recognized government) should not be called a Finn. He is an expatriate. He fled from our country long ago."

"We hear that your people will give us moral support?"

"That appears to be the case."

"We admire America," he then said. "And we expect to give you more cause to admire us. If the worst comes, tell your people we will fight to the last man—to the last man.

PRICE CHANGES MIXED IN BRIEF STOCK SESSION

Analysts Find Satisfaction In Chrysler's Report on Share Profits.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Fractional price changes either way spotted the stock market in today's dealings.

Market analysts found some satisfaction in the Chrysler report, out after yesterday's close, showing 9 months' profit of $7.22 a share against $1.53 in the corresponding 1938 period. Directors voted a dividend of $1 a share which brought payments this year to $5 compared with $2 for all of 1938.

Notice was taken of the federal reserve figures disclosing the country's department store sales for the week ended Nov. 25, topped the same week a year ago by 5 per cent. In the previous week the year-to-year increase amounted to 2 per cent and in the week before that to 7 per cent.

Principal gains were registered in the reserve districts of Boston with 22 per cent, Atlanta with 12 per cent, Philadelphia with 11 per cent, Dallas with 3 per cent and Chicago with 2 per cent.

Reflecting the recent activity in the hard metal field was the estimate of the Lake Superior Iron Ore association placing ore shipments down the Great Lakes in November at 5,472,605 gross tons, largest for this month since 1917.

PREMIER SEES PEACE CHANCE

Ryti Declares Outlook For New Negotiations Not Entirely Hopeless.

"The military situation is not unfavorable. Fighting is going on on most fronts at this moment. We shot down 17 Russian planes and destroyed 14 Soviet tanks on Friday. Our troops are giving a good account of themselves.

"Popular morale is perfect. The people are calm and confident."

He said Finland was thankful for the moral support of the United States in her "war for existence" and expected nothing more.

"We will fight alone and we expect to win," he said. "We are obtaining moral support from Britain and France and we hope for diplomatic support from them. We fear, however, that they cannot render us military assistance because of our isolated position."

He described Friday's bombings of Helsinki as "terrible."

"They killed our women and children," he said. "We estimate the dead in Helsinki at more than 200. There are no figures on our losses at the front as yet."

Soviet Recognizes 'Rebel' Government.

MOSCOW —(U.P.)— Russia's plan to make Finland a semi-Soviet state like the outer Mongolian peoples' republic in Asia, was disclosed today when the government officially recognized a revolutionary Finnish "government" purportedly set up on the Finnish border by an exiled Finnish communist.

Coincident with the announcement that the presidium of the supreme Soviet (parliament) had accorded full diplomatic status to "Premier" Otto Kuusinen's Finnish "government," Premier-Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia gave the United States Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt a reply to President Roosevelt's message asking Russia not to bomb open cities in Finland.

The text of this reply, as published by Tass, official news agency, read:

"Roosevelt's message on the inadmissability of bombing from planes the population of cities of Finland, inasmuch as he directed it to the Soviet government, is based on misunderstanding. Soviet planes did not bomb cities and have no intention of doing so but have bombed airports, since our government values the interests of the Finnish people no less than any other government. Of course the United States, which is 5,000 miles away, cannot see this but it is a fact nevertheless. In view of this, the above declaration of Roosevelt is pointless."

I'M STILL RUNNIN' THIS OUTFIT—
HERE'S THE SET-UP—I SENT BLACK TO MEET SNAKE-EYES WHO WAS BRINGIN' A FORTUNE IN SMUGGLED DIAMONDS 'CROSS THE BORDER—
BLACK CLAIMS HE FOUND SNAKE-EYES BUSHWHACKED AN' THE DIAMONDS GONE! I AIN'T SAYIN' HE DID OR HE DIDN'T—BUT I'M KEEPIN' BLACK ALIVE UNTIL I FIND OUT WHAT HAPPENED TO THEM DIAMONDS—SAVVY?
DARRELL McCLURE
I KINDA GOT THE WIM-WAMS—IT'S LOTS BETTER TO BE POOR AN' HAVE NOTHIN' TO WORRY 'BOUT—THAN TO BE RICH AN' HAVE TO KEEP WORRYIN' 'BOUT A BAG OF DIAMONDS ALL THE TIME!!
DEAR, OH, DEAR—I WISH I NEVER HAD SEEN THAT POUCHFUL OF DIAMONDS—I THINK OF THEM ALL DAY AND DREAM OF THEM AT NIGHT!!
NOW, SISTER—YOU MUST BE CALM—WE ARE INNOCENT OF ANY WRONG-DOING—WE ARE FORCED TO KEEP THE DIAMONDS UNTIL WE LEARN WHO THEY REALLY BELONG TO—
SUSPICION IS NOT PROOF—YOUR HUSBAND MAY HAVE BEEN ACTING AS MESSENGER FOR THE REAL OWNER OF THE GEMS
OH—IF I COULD ONLY BELIEVE THAT—BUT I'M AFRAID—
11-28
I FEEL TERRIBLE SORRY FOR MRS BLACK—IF SHE TELLS THE SHERIFF 'BOUT THE DIAMONDS—HE'LL ARREST HER HUSBAND—IF SHE KEEPS THE DIAMONDS—THAT'S WRONG—I GUESS NO MATTER WHAT SHE DOES—SOMEONE WILL BLAME HER!!
DARRELL McCLURE
I AIN'T WORRYING 'BOUT SNAKE-EYES—HE NEEDED KILLIN'—BUT WHEN BLACK TRIES TO DOUBLE-CROSS THE GANG AN' STEAL THE FORTUNE IN DIAMONDS—
HE DIDN'T STEAL THE DIAMONDS—HE THREW THEM AWAY—
THREW AWAY A POUCHFUL OF DIAMONDS??? ARE YOU CRAZY OR AM I???
YOU MEAN TO TELL ME WITH A POSSE CHASIN' HIM—HE WAS SCARED BY THE GHOST OF A BURRO AN' DROPPED THE DIAMONDS??
THAT'S JUST WHAT HAPPENED—GIVE HIM A CHANCE TO PROVE IT—IF HE DON'T—SHOOT HIM!
DARRELL McCLURE
11-29
GEE, ZERO—I CAN'T SLEEP—WHEN I CLOSE MY EYES—I START DREAMIN' 'BOUT GHOSTS AN' DIAMONDS AN' ROBBERS—AN' I GET SO SCARED I GOTTA WAKE UP!!
WHAT'S THE MATTER, ZERO? DO YOU SEE SOMETHIN' I CAN'T SEE?? OH, I SEE IT NOW—MAYBE IT'S MRS BLACK'S HUSBAND COMIN' HOME AGAIN
COME ON, QUICK! A MAN ON HORSEBACK IS OUT ON THE DESERT, COMIN' STRAIGHT FOR OUR HOUSE"
IF IT'S SOME STRANGER OR SHERIFF GRAYSON—REMEMBER—WE NEVER SAW ANY DIAMONDS!
IF IT'S MY HUSBAND—??
IT'S MR. STRING BEAN RIDIN' SLOW—LIKE HE WASN'T WORRYIN' 'BOUT NOTHIN'
I WONDER IF HE KNOWS ABOUT THE DIAMONDS ???
DARRELL McCLURE
1-30
"THANK YOU KINDLY MA'AM, FOR EVERY-THING—'SPECIALLY THAT APPLE PIE
YOU ARE, MORE THAN WELCOME—I'M SORRY MY HUSBAND ISN'T HERE
OH, I'LL LIKELY RIDE ACROSS HIS TRAIL BEFORE LONG
IF YOU SHOULD SEE HIM—PLEASE TELL HIM TO COME HOME—I FOUND SOMETHING HE THOUGHT WAS LOST
ADIOS!
GOODBYE—MR STRING BEAN
I LIKE MR. STRING BEAN—HE KNOWS ALL ABOUT THE DESERT AN' EVERYTHING—HE'S TERRIBLE SMART!
"SMART"?? I WONDER JUST HOW MUCH HE KNOWS ABOUT THE STOLEN DIAMONDS??
DARRELL McCLURE
DON'T STAND THERE DUDING UP WHAT'S THE NEWS 'BOUT THE DIAMONDS??
THE OLD LADIES OR THE KID NEVER MEN-TIONED NOTHIN' 'BOUT DIAMONDS
OF COURSE, THEY DIDN'T—HOW'D THEY KNOW ANY-THING 'BOUT DIAMONDS?
BUT BLACK, YOUR WIFE SEZ FOR YOU TO COME HOME—SHE FOUND SOMETHING YOU THOUGHT WAS LOST!
I TELL YOU THAT'S GOT NOTHIN' TO DO WITH ANY DIAMONDS—
SHUT YOUR TRAP! WE'RE RIDING TO YOUR HOUSE—PRONTO—IF THERE'S ANY DIAMONDS THERE—I'LL FIND 'EM!
DARRELL McCLURE
HONEST, BEAUTY, YOU LOOK SWELL—WHEN FOLKS LOOKED AT YOU THEY WAS SCARED AN' SAID YOU WAS A BAD BURRO—NOW WHEN THEY SEE YOU THEY'LL SAY, 'AIN'T HE CUTE'?

JIMMY MURPHY
11-27
I DON'T WANT KARLO BUZZING AROUND HERE! HE'S TOO GOOD-LOOKIN' TO SUIT ME! I'D SOONER HAVE HOMELY GUYS AROUND, SO I'D LOOK HANDSOME IN COMPARISON! HERE COMES A TAXI!! IT'S HIM!

JIMMY MURPHY
11-28
MY, BUT KARLO HAS CHANGED! HE USED TO BE SO LITTLE WITH THICK, CURLY HAIR!
HE'S SO FAT NOW HE COULD GET A JOB IN A SIDE-SHOW AND HE'S SO BALD THEY COULD USE HIS HEAD FOR A BILLIARD BALL.

IN FACT, HIS SHOWIN' UP HAS NOW MADE HER THINK A WHOLE LOT MORE OF ME.
MY WIFE IS ALWAYS RAVING ABOUT A GIRLHOOD SWEETIE SHE WISHES SHE'D MARRIED, TOO, CASPER.
WHY DON'T YOU ARRANGE TO LET SOPHIE SEE HIM AS HE IS TODAY— AND MAYBE SHE WON'T THINK SO MUCH OF HIM?
NOBODY KNOWS WHERE HE IS, BUT I WISH SHE'D QUIT THINKING OF HIM AND THINK MORE OF ME
11-30
WHY DON'T YOU GET SOME HOMELY OLD GUY TO PRETEND HE'S HER OLD FLAME AND DISILLUSION HER?
BY JOVE, CASPER, THAT IS AN IDEA! HMM-M.
JIMMY MURPHY
CASPER, IF COL. HOOFER, AS YOU TOLD ME, IS GOING TO HIRE SOME HOMELY OLD FELLOW TO PRETEND HE'S SOPHIE'S GIRLHOOD SWEETIE— WELL, I'VE A HUNCH IT'S A DANGEROUS PLAN—
SHHH!— I TOLD YOU NOT TO MENTION IT, TOOTS.
Copr 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved

I ONCE GOT FIVE YEARS.
12-2
THERE'S $100.00 IN IT FOR YOU! HALF NOW AND HALF WHEN YOU FINISH.

Finn Refugees Trudge Over Ice, Snow to Reach Norway

SET FIRE TO HOMES, FLEE TO FRONTIER

Women, Children Stream Into Haven While Finn Troops Battle Red Hordes.

(By United Press)

KIRKENAES, NORWAY — (Northernmost City in the World) —Finnish refugees, mostly women and children, streamed over the ice-covered frontier into Norway today after burning their homes to keep the Russians from using them.

Americans, British and Canadians, who had been employed in Finland's nickle industry, were among them.

The Russians were driving fast onto the Norwegian border in this far north country and a fierce battle was under way between 800 Finnish soldiers and several thousand Russians only 10 miles from the Norwegian border near Svanvik.

Norwegian doctors and nurses were waiting at the border to attend wounded Finnish soldiers, expected momentarily, but when none had arrived late in the morning at Svanvik it became more apparent that the Finns were defending their ground to the last man.

Telephone service to Petsamo was cut off but refugees said when they left, there was furious hand-to-hand fighting.

Russian airplanes were grounded in the far north by bad weather.

Report Town Burned.

It was reported at Svanvik that Finnish soldiers had burned the town of Salmijaervi late last night and had been ordered to blow up the nickle plants of the region and destroy everything else, before retreating. A few civilians remained behind to help kill cattle that could not be moved through the gorge to Svanvik.

The troops were using only rifles and machine guns. Artillery could not be transported through the mountainous country. The Russians were said to be poorly equipped.

Blazing Finnish homes could be seen from the frontier. The people had fled with all they could carry and destroyed the rest. Norwegian authorities were quartering them in schools and other public buildings.

11 Head of County Cattle Entered In Show at Chicago

Eleven head of prize Shorthorn cattle from the Mansfield area are entered in the International Livestock exposition which opens today in Chicago.

The Maxwalton farms south of the city, annual exhibitors at the show, entered 10 head of cattle, including five cows and five bulls. Carl H. Stander, Mansfield contractor who operates a farm in Perry township, will exhibit a young cow.

Several of the Maxwalton entries have captured honors at the show in recent years.

More than 12,000 animals will compete at the exposition and cash prizes amounting to more than $100,000 will be paid to exhibitors. Cattle and other livestock from nearly 40 states and four Canadian provinces will be shown.

The exhibition will close next Saturday.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday at the Wise Funeral home with Rev. David Mumford, pastor of the Lutheran church, officiating.

Up and Down THE STREET

Two Mansfield couples were turning homeward today after a whirlwind tour of Florida during the past two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mansfield have "done" the resort state pretty thoroughly for although they haven't tarried long at any one place, they've visited most of the points of interest on the eastern coast and will do the western coast on the way home. Their longest stay was at Miami Beach, and they went all the way down to Key West.

The county fair board was to learn this afternoon how its early fair experiment worked last summer. This year the fair was the first in Ohio and if it paid dividends, or so much as broke even, it probably will be one of the first again next year. The board tested the July fair after cold weather had ruined attendance for two years. Fairs in recent years have failed to pay their way, and a tentative report to be submitted to the board today was expected to show the results this year.

Earl Culp was still limping today because of a fight but it wasn't because of any fisticuffs on his part. Serving as a fight timekeeper at the Friendly House amateur boxing show the other night, Culp hit the bell hanging on the side of the ring a bit too hard and down it came on his right foot. The gong and its base weighed about 10 pounds but felt like a ton, he said.

Municipal court attaches were all set today for a feast of venison and they are depending on their "boss," Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, to "bring home the bacon." The judge went deer hunting in Pennsylvania this week and will not be back until next Friday. During his absence Atty. Herbert H. Schettler is on the bench.

AWAIT HEARINGS

Youth Held In Theft, Second Picked Up on Indictment.

Two men, one a probation violator and the other cited for abandonment, were held in the county jail today awaiting hearings before Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court.

They are Ray Johnson, 20, of 54 West Augustine avenue, and Keith M. Knowlton, 21, of Orient, O.

Johnson, who was placed on probation by Judge Huston last Jan. 28 after pleading guilty to an indictment for breaking and entering, was arrested today after he allegedly embezzled $25 in trade checks at the Steak tavern where he was employed.

Knowlton was arrested yesterday in Columbus on a grand jury indictment and returned here by Sheriff E. P. Long. The grand jury indicted him secretly about a month ago.

PARADE 'TOPS' IN FARM PRODUCE

Blueblood Livestock, Prize Hay And Grain Samples on Exhibit In Chicago.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — The finest products of North American agriculture went on exhibition today at the 40th annual International Live Stock exposition.

Cattle, horses, sheep and swine assembled for the big city's fair, together with more than 4,000 prize samples of hay and grain, filled the international amphitheater from its giant arena to the roof.

Judging top select the champions which will share approximately $100,000 in prize money began promptly at 8 a. m., with the junior live stock feeding contest the first order of business.

This annual competition among young farmers and farmerettes attracted entries from 13 states and established a new record for the exposition. B. H. Heide, exposition manager, said there were 401 exhibitors this year, compared with 274 in 1938.

They were showing 480 calves, 66 sheep and 24 pigs they raised themselves.

The war in Europe and two successive years of bumper crops in the United States, Heide explained, have combined to make this year's eight-day show a record-breaker.

He said in previous years the Royal Winter fair at Toronto always preceded the International exposition. It has been cancelled this year because of the war, and Canadian live stock men have sent more than 500 entries to Chicago.

See Dewey Inject New Life to G. O. P. Ranks

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Formal entry of Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor, into the 1940 presidential arena was hailed with delight by Republican leaders today in belief his campaigning will create new party interest, whether or not he wins the G. O. P. nomination.

At Republican headquarters, publicity director Franklyn Waltman reflected G. O. P. reaction by saying.

"Dewey will help to build up party spirit. He'll make the headlines and give us a good push early in the campaign. Our attitude here (at headquarters) is the more the merrier. We have no favorites and bless all of them, hoping each one does his best."

The G. O. P. already has Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, out on speech-making tours. Taft, now in the southwest, is heading back home before visiting the east and New England. Bridges is on the west coast.

Now, Dewey will start campaigning, with an initial speech in Minneapolis next week. Leaders here wish a dozen more candidates including Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, would get out through the country making "good party speeches."

As for Dewey's chances of winning the nomination, G. O. P. leaders withheld comment. It was apparent they will wait to judge the nation's reaction to his speeches on major national issues, starting with his farm speech at Minneapolis.

If Dewey reveals a fundamental grasp of intricate national and international problems and then proposes a popular program for handling them, there may be a band-wagon rush to his standard. On the other hand, if the public fails to rally to him, he may be only a formidable candidate for the vice-presidential nomination.

ANOTHER FILM MARRIAGE PFFTS

Jean Parker, Wed Three Years, Calls It Mistake.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — The three-year marriage of Jean Parker, film beauty, and George MacDonald, New York newspaper man, was on the rocks today, and Miss Parker had a divorce complaint on file.

In it she charged her husband, whom she married in Las Vegas, Nev., on March 21, 1936, with cruel and inhuman treatment, but did not elaborate. Recently Miss Parker blamed collapse of their marriage on the fact that their separate careers kept them "3,000 miles apart."

RELIEF CRISIS IN METROPOLIS STILL SERIOUS

Scheduled Federal Surplus Food Shipment Next Week to Fall Far Short of Needs.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND — About 12,000 Clevelanders will be given only apples and white flour to eat next week unless there are unexpected developments, city relief officials declared today.

The city recently removed the 12,000—all able-bodied unmarried persons and childless couples—from its grocery order rolls because of dwindling funds, leaving them to exist on federal supplies commodities and personal initiative.

Eighteen hungry persons took matters into their own hands yesterday, ordering and eating $9.96 worth of food at a downtown cafeteria and telling employes to "charge it to the city."

The 15 men and three women, who said they were members of the Association of Unemployed on direct and work relief, were told by Manager J. J. Pratt: "I hope you enjoyed your meal."

He said he planned no action but hoped "there will be no more such visitors."

Sydney T. Rowley, assistant city relief commissioner, said next week's supply of federal surplus food was the "lowest yet," although ample food is expected to be available for the following week, including two carloads of butter—enough for one city distribution.

Relief officials reported begging had increased since the order went into effect. One unmarried relief client, interviewed at random in a district station, was asked how he was eating.

"Panhandling," he replied succinctly. Rowley said more begging had been noted recently on downtown streets.

Cleveland's relief diet, including surplus food, to the 46,000 persons still living on it is "about 30 per cent below the U. S. Children's Bureau of Home Economics adequate diet at Minimum cost," the city's assistant relief commissioner declared. The city relief order itself is about 40 per cent below, with surplus foods bringing it up by about 10 per cent, he said.

TAG FOR FIDO

County Auditor Opens Annual Sale of Dog Licenses.

It's time to buy a dog tag again.

The shiny little labels had been placed on sale today by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe at the same price they sold for last year —$1 for males and spayed females and $3 for females.

Dogs won't have to display the tags until after Jan. 1, but the auditor advised purchase of them before then to avoid the usual last-hour rush.

The tags may be ordered by mail if the dog owner encloses the necessary amount with his order and gives a complete discription of the dog. Orders must be addressed to the county auditor at the courthouse.

Sale of the tags is expected to exceed the 1938-39 figures when more than 7,000 were sold in the county.

OUT OF JAIL 3 DAYS, BACK IN IT

Loudonville Man Picked Up On Breaking-Entering Charge.

ASHLAND—Released from the Ashland county jail only three days ago, Howard Bowman, 29, of Loudonville, was back in there today on a charge of breaking and entering.

Bowman was released Nov. 28 after the grand jury failed to indict him on the same charges, for which he had been held in the jail for five weeks, awaiting the grand jury's meeting.

He was arrested again last night by Deputy Sheriff M. F. Rickenbrod after allegedly breaking into the home of John Dana in Loudonville. He was brought to jail here pending his hearing.

Not That It Matters

Why Expect Anything Else From Russia, a Country Of Thinnest Civilization?

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IF THERE is any excuse to be found for Russia's brutal conduct toward sturdy little Finland, it is that her civilization is still a very thin veneer, and her leader is a semi-barbarian.

Less than 200 years ago Russia still considered frying a culprit in oil a genteel method of punishment. When Catherine the Great came to the throne, (after having her lover murder her husband and imprisoning her son) the vast, dark expanse of Russia was practically an unknown country to the rest of Western Europe. There was neither culture nor sanitation, and the first advances to Europe to lend some of her civilization were made by Catherine, who was a German by birth. And that was only little more than 170 years ago.

Russia's march along civilization's path has been slow; her people have been oppressed and dominated by rulers and leaders that have been either weak or harsh.

It scarcely was to be expected that Stalin, a Red Russian from the unenlightened province of Georgia, would have any respect for the rights of individuals or nations. Once he talked loudly of the rights of men; now that he has power he considers it the only measure of right.

* * *

AMERICA is genuinely indignant and appalled at the tragedy that has befallen Finland—and not because the independent little country was the only foreign nation to assume its war debt responsibilities to us.

But only the hysterical will talk of canceling our trade agreements with Russia as a reprisal. Scratching Russia off our trade list won't help Finland and it will hurt thousands of American workmen whose jobs depend upon Russia's purchase of American-made goods. In Mansfield alone such a move would have economic repercussions. Several Mansfield industries sell goods to Russia and one plant would be seriously crippled if its Russian markets were cut off.

One of the privileges of a shopkeeper is the right to despise the people who buy from him and from whom he buys—if he wants to.

* * *

THE VERY few critics of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" believed the Washington situation was overdrawn, that there must be some senators who could not be bought. The most memorable line in the entire play—for me—was that of the older senator who was answering the boy's bitter indictment. He said:

"I had my ideals, too, when I came here. Most of us have, but we all compromise with our ideals sometimes—so that we may stay on here to represent our people in a thousand honest ways."

I wouldn't be afraid to bet my biggest piece of costume jewelry that is true of most of 'em—they resort to trickery at times in order to stay and serve honestly.

PHYLLIS OSTER, who was society editor on The Mansfield News-Journal for seven years and who was forced to leave because of ill health in 1937, writes her gratitude from Edwin Shaw Sanitarium, Akron, for the loyalty and remembrances from Mansfield friends. Although she has been in a sanitarium for two years and four months, each holiday she is remembered by many.

Monday was her birthday and she received a deluge of gifts and more than 50 cards from friends here. Although she is feeling "on top of the world," she still is unable to write more than a very brief and occasional note and she asks this department to convey her sincere appreciation for all of the remembrances.

SCHOOL KIDS in Toledo are hilarious over the school levy which failed to pass at the last election. Told me last week-end that because of a curtailed budget they are having six weeks out of school now and their big vacation includes all of the major winter holidays. They don't go back until some time after New Year.

And of course the majority of the parents who voted the levy down aren't taking the vacation very seriously. "The youngsters probably won't know any less for the vacation," they opine philosophically.

THINGS I NEVER KNEW TILL THEN: What is eider down? A heated argument between man and wife took place t'other night at the American Legion office when she said airily that anyone who knew anything at all, knew that eider down was a soft woven material with a heavy nap. He said "It isn't any such thing. It's the down from the breast of an eider sea duck." When Legionnaires produced a small dictionary which affirmed the husband's knowledge, there was triumphant shouting. "By golly he won an argument once! Let's see you put THAT in your column."

So here it is. He was right. And I admit it.

But sh-sh-h—I was right, too. The unabridged dictionary gives both definitions.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Raps A. F. of L.'s Green For Not Taking Earlier Stand on Bioff Matter

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The problems of an honest, legitimate leader of organized labor bespeak the most tolerant consideration, but there are some issues on which a man so placed must take a stand or accuse himself of incompetence or civic immorality.

There are union problems which cease to be private affairs of private organizations and become matters of public interest.

William Green was confronted last summer with an attempt of the so-called Stage Hands' union, officially known as the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes and Moving Picture Operators, to kidnap the Actors' unions. Green stalled when honest leadership called for a thorough investigation and a decision. So the fight went to a showdown, in which the actors won.

They won, but only by a show of force and threats to publicize the methods of the Stage Hands' union and the vicious character of its powerful Hollywood boss, Willie Bioff, the Chicago vicemonger. They did not have positive proof of Bioff's conviction, nor is it likely that they even suspected that he still owed all but eight days of a sentence of six months for pandering.

Bioff himself knew the facts were such that a careful investigation would expose him. Therefore, at the last minute, when it was certain that the actors would strike rather than submit to anschluss under the rule of a racketteer, Bioff used his influence to call off the raid.

This fight began in a small dispute in that section of the big, all-embracing union of actors known as the night club group. There was disagreement over the propriety of certain expenditures.

It developed into a wild political and emotional brawl in the course of which the actors' parent group suspended the night club section. The stage hands then promptly attempted to absorb the suspended body by granting it a charter. This raid violated the rules of the American Federation of Labor, but still Green took no action.

* * *

The stage hands—meaning the union officials, not the rank and file of that great, mixed group of crafts—nevertheless went far back into the archives to discover that a phrase of their original charter, a provision long forgotten and never used, gave them jurisdiction over all employes of the theater.

They said that included the actors, and now they were going to force all the performers into their union and fatten their treasury with dues and income taxes by a threat to call out projectors and backstage employes wherever an actor appeared who refused to submit to absorption.

This is a major industry, involving vast numbers of workers and vast amounts of wages and capital. The very fact that such a creature as Bioff could become a labor power in the amusement industry throughout the United States proves that the higher executives of the American Federation of Labor neglected their responsibility not only to the public but to the workers in the trade.

MILLERSBURG—At the tuberculosis clinic, conducted by the Holmes County Christmas Seal association at the Pomerene Memorial hospital here, the examining physician, Dr. E. B. SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:

FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.

NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.

ELLEN CHAPMAN, young and capble mistress of Willoughby house.

DR. BILL MALLORY, close friend of Ellen's.

YESTERDAY: Fabienne goes to the ancestral home near Baltimore, maintained in luxury by her aunt and uncle.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

For nearly a fortnight Fabienne had been in Maryland. It was the way it always was when she was there. Long, cool, sweet sleep. Bright mornings. Molly fussing over her, brushing her corn-silk hair, lovingly caring for her clothes. Dance frocks in the scented closet. Uncle Mark and Aunt Edna waiting up for her whatever hour she came in. Cookies and milk at three o'clock in the morning in front of the fire in the library or in Uncle Mark's study. Gossip about the party.

The dances. The same faces. The high-ceilinged rooms and the colored boys playing waltzes back of the potted palms. Miss Kate and Miss Viola Lee in their lavender laces and painted shawls. The Gosling girls still beau snatching. The elderly "eligible bachelor" who had courted her mother and was paying the same compliments to her. The laden banquet boards and the rich buffets. The big, pale pink hams and hot breads. The wine cups and steaming toddies. The baked oysters and fried chicken. The tinkling laughter and slurred voices. The social south that never changed. Those were her nights, one after another.

* * *

There were the days. The morning rides—hard, fast riding over swept turf, over the first light snow, for now it was December. Rides on fresh mornings that crackled with energy and ended in nothingness.

Back to Nicky's or Jane's or someone else's and a highball before lunch. Lunch that lasted into the afternoon hours. Home to change, or on to someone else's house in riding clothes for cocktails and talk about horses or other people. And beaux, young and old, for, seemingly, no man in her set in that part of the country did any work.

The days and the nights with the sameness and gaiety that Fabienne felt must be forced insomuch as it had never changed, began to pall upon her and restlessness to which she had never before been prey, fell upon her.

She took to prowling the lanes on foot, avoiding the telephone, finding herself in the grip of a deadly ennui.

Sometimes, looking at the sky and noting the shifting light that marked the hour, pictures came to her.

Now it is four o'clock. The children's games are noisy in the west wing of Willoughby house. Her own little class would be rehearsing the play she had directed.

Six o'clock. Another girl would be clearing the desk in the children's clinic. Ellen Chapman, thinking of her evening date with Bill Mallory, everywhere at once. Busy, happy, working.

But Ellen Chapman wouldn't be called for in a Rolls towncar. Ellen wouldn't have a new white and silver gown to wear at a dance in a ballroom that had seen three presidents dancing there.

Fabienne was putting on the white and silver gown when Molly brought up the evening mail.

She pulled the dress over her head and, without waiting to hook it, sat on one of Fabienne de Courcy's little spindle - legged chairs and ran through the pile of letters.

There was one from Paris. That would be from Gertrude.

Fabienne slit the tissue-thin envelope. Her mother's neat, small handwriting covered four sheets.

". . . I don't think I shall come over for Christmas, after all," Gertrude wrote. "I've been invited to Nice with some amusing people. And it isn't as if you were all children and needed me to have a happy holiday. The twins"—the twins had been put in school in Switzerland—"are reluctant to miss the winter sports and wish to stay on at school. Dick writes me that he is going to fly to California for the holidays. Do you think he is interested in the Haviland girl? I do hope so. Her family, you know, own most of the western railroads. Dick has got to make a good marriage now that he hasn't any money outside of the pitiful income from his trust fund. I do worry about my children."

Fabienne sniffed indelicately and continued her reading:

"I'm so happy that you have decided to give up that odious work. I can't tell you how you hurt me doing that, Fabienne; but I forgive you now and knew that you'd come to your senses. I should have insisted on your coming to Paris with me, but I know that you are happier in Maryland. And I also know, whether you realize it yet or not, that you are only happy with Nicky. You've practically spent your lives together, darling, and that counts for a great deal. I've often thought that the reason why my two marriages were so disastrous was that I didn't know either of my husbands long enough before we were married. I always married for love that was nothing more than infatuation. I'm afraid that's what you're looking for. But it is so wrong—when you have dear, devoted Nicky already waiting for you."

* * *

Fabienne thrust the letter aside and screamed, "Molly! Hook this thing up. I'm late enough now."

Molly said, "You ain't read all your letters, Miss Fabienne."

"I've read enough. Don't forget my carriage boots. It's cold tonight."

Molly held a long wrap for her to slip into and Fabienne looked at herself a long time in the pier glass. Then she unpinned the sheaf of white camellias from her shoulder and threw them on the bed beside the letters with a gesture of distaste and went out of the room and down to dear, devoted Nicky who was waiting for her with the inevitable highball glass in his hand.

The flowers were gone and the bed neatly turned down when she returned to her room much later that night.

The letters she had not opened were on the bed table beside the bowl of fruit Molly had placed there.

There was a long white envelope with a New York postmark and her name typed on it. Curious, she slit it and pulled out three large sheets of paper. The first page contained a typewritten note from Ellen. It was the first Ellen had sent her.

The other pages contained signatures scrawled in school children's writing.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember that trains have the right of way at grade crossings.

One poll shows 97 Americans out of 100 favorable to the Finns—and the other three probably didn't know about those debt payments.

One college athletic director complains that sports are being neglected because of overemphasis on studies—and conditions at Chicago university should be fully investigated.

Finland's Fate May Await Others

FEAR as to the ultimate fate of all small European nations, or even of small nations in any part of the world, is intensified by Russia's military action against Finland, following that little country's refusal to surrender to demands of its big and powerful neighbor.

Action of Communist Russia was not unlike that of Nazi Germany in its assumption that superior power is all that is needed to establish territorial rights in other countries theretofore regarded as "independent."

If, as is now being asserted by some students of the situation, it is Russia's aim to make itself impregnable against attack from the west, as an initial move toward spreading communism in Europe, and eventually throughout the world, inclusion of Sweden and Norway in this grandiose plan would appear to be the next logical step.

Under such circumstances any union of forces with Nazi Germany seems impossible, but stranger things have happened than that Russia and Germany should at least temporarily join forces in a war against the world's few remaining democracies—for communism and naziism are on common ground in their hatred of democracy.

Looking on from this distance, it appears that if Finland's future is to be under Russian dictation, and Hitler is permitted to continue his territorial expansion to the extent of his inordinate greed, not only Europe but the entire world is likely to be moving toward more disturbed conditions than can now be imagined.

Many Supporters of Red Cross

THOSE who are sometimes inclined to doubt that "the world is getting better" should find renewed faith in such incidents as the Red Cross roll call in Richland county, which closed with more than ten thousand members signed up—the largest peacetime enrollment ever attained in this city and county.

Among all the worthy activities which must depend upon voluntary contributions for their maintenance, the Red Cross is probably more expansive in its humanitarian service than any other. In addition to functioning in its own community it extends its helpfulness to people in all parts of this country and, to the extent of its resources, throughout the world.

Those who provide the necessary leadership and working force in such a campaign as has just been successfully concluded, as well as all who make either a small or large contribution, merit commendation for their willingness to share in a form of unselfish service which reveals the highest attainment of present-day civilization.

Comparing Mentality of Races

THE supposedly benighted "heathen" who "bow down to wood and stone" are getting wise to us and our ways. Alexander Paul of Indianapolis, an executive secretary of oriental missions, says:

"The people of India, China and Japan have come to see that the white man is not only no better than they are, but in many cases worse. Oriental leaders are beginning to realize that, given an equal chance, the mentality and brains of races the world over are about the same."

On this latter point, concerning native intelligence rather than actual level of culture, experts have greatly changed their views in recent years. The question was frankly discussed in a recent "Town Meeting of the Air."

Of three specialists in this field, one maintained that there was no real difference in the natural capacity of races, but that seeming differences of character and talent were caused by their surroundings. The second expert held that while no basic differences had been proved, further research might find some; and the third said practically the same thing.

All agreed that the subordinate races should have a fair chance to develop their possibilities, for their own sake and for the benefit of mankind in general.

Hemispheric Co-operation

A GROUP of senators and represenatives, returning from a visit to the Panama Canal, say they have had assurance of Central-American co-operation to strengthen the defenses of this hemisphere.

Military roads for canal defense rank high among such policies. Another form of mutual protection in this region is said to be help from our country for stabilizing Central American currencies. This will enable those little nations "to resist economic pressure from European and Asiatic countries."

All this sounds rather reasonable and is probably inevitable. Uncle Sam has already been subsidizing trunk highways in Central America, to provide better access to the Canal Zone by land and incidentally to promote business and neighborliness in the countries of that region.

Crocheting as Man's Hobby

THE lumberjack-cowboy who won the first prize in the men's group of the third national crocheting contest started to crochet at the age of five years and enjoyed it so much that he kept right on for the next ten years.

As a fifteen-year-old lad he "couldn't take it" when other kids made fun of him for his fancy work. Ridicule made him give up his artistic hobby for ten years. At the end of that decade, however, the urge was still so strong within him that he tossed fear of others' opinions aside and proceeded to crochet busily for his own enjoyment.

"I decided that those who wanted to laugh could," he says. "Crocheting was a lot more fun than poker, drinking or rough-housing."

It is refreshing to read of some one who isn't afraid to do the thing he enjoys most and does well.

Charlie McCarthy tops all the radio personalities in a popularity contest—upsetting the idea that it is only in politics that a wooden head can succeed.

Paulina Semyonovna Zhemchuzhina has been removed from the Soviet cabinet—maybe because she slowed up the roll call.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Rain fell over Manhattan with rigorous, relentless persistence. The cop on the corner kicked his heels against the curb, to dislodge the mud. A girl in a bright red raincoat and red rubber slippers walked straight up to the cop. "Balsa to heyiama okay?" she said.

"Are you talking double talk to me?" the cop inquired wearily.

"Oh!" exclaimed the girl. She stepped back. She said, "I'm sorry. He's sorry; everybody's sorry. Everybody in the whole world's sorry."

She kept backing away, as if she had become badly frightened. Suddenly she turned and fled.

The cop blew through the trickle of water running off his nose. "Drunk," he said. "Second one tonight."

But the next day an item, just a tiny little item in one of the papers, put a different light on the story. The unidentified body of a girl had been found in a room in Brooklyn. She hadn't been slain. There was no evidence of suicide. She had simply—died. "She was dressed," the paper said, "in a bright red raincoat and a pair of red rubber slippers."

* * *

SO OFTEN these tragic vignettes of the hard side of Manhattan life turn up. A girl and a cop on a rain-swept corner in New York—and now a place in that house of shadows near Bellevue—the morgue—where the unidentified and the unclaimed are held for awhile, and then taken to potters field.

I don't know who she was . . . probably she was somebody like the girl who lives next door to you. . . . It may be that she came here and found that the demands of the city were too exacting. . . . Something must have hurt her, and weighed on her mind, and drove her to say, and perhaps do, irrational things. She wasn't drunk. As is usual in such cases, a chemical analysis was made of the contents of her stomach—and there wasn't any alcohol.

There was just five cents in her purse. Not a nickel—just five little separate pennies. I saw them. I went down to the morgue with the police doctor. I saw the cop to whom she had spoken, because when unidentified bodies are picked up, a description of the person and their clothing is always flashed to all police. This cop remembered her. He said as long as he lived he would always remember the look on her face as she backed away from him. That was when he said in a bored way, "Are you talking double talk to me?" He thought she had been drinking. He thought she was being silly, and dumb.

* * *

YOU could see the report the officers made out when they answered the call . . . "D. O. A." the report said—Dead On Arrival. They would let you see her, too, if you asked.

I know that such things as this have to be. Like wars and floods and even death itself—they are inevitable. If it were someone somebody knew, and if there was a reason—an accident, perhaps—it wouldn't be so bad—except to those who were near to her.

But to have these strange, inexplanable riddles—and find no answer, no key—that is one of the truly melancholy sides of New York life. This isn't an unusual thing by any means. Ask the cop on the corner. Any corner. Ask the police doctor. They know. They see it happen every day.

Deficit-Cut Is Election Year Aim

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt's hopes to cut the deficit next year by one billion dollars are based on two premises. One is that better business will largely increase federal receipts from taxes, and the other is the determination to cut federal spending.

If he should achieve his goal he will still be far from balancing the budget. There would still be a deficit of something between one and a half to two billion dollars. But at least it would be a step in the right direction—a step which might be highly important in keeping the budget-balancing and eventual inflation issue out of the 1940 presidential campaign.

It is true that this issue was raised with all the strength of the Republican party in 1936, and that it amounted to precisely nothing so far as affecting public opinion or changing votes was concerned. But the President realizes that the state of the public mind on this issue may be very different in 1940 from what it was in 1936.

* * *

WHEN the last presidential election campaign was progressing, business was improving. It looked as though the Roosevelt policies were working out satisfactorily in a financial way as well as from a social standpoint. The prospect now is that business will continue to improve during 1940, giving a comparably favorable position with the last campaign. There are some skeptics who doubt this, it should be stated. Many economists inside the New Deal fear a recession this coming spring. But the majority opinion is that there will be slow improvement, as war orders increase.

The difference between 1940 and 1936—assuming that the similarity of improving business during a campaign holds good—will be, as it is viewed now, that there will be more people worrying about where the continuance of the Roosevelt policies will lead. It was one thing to have the government spend vastly more than it takes in for a three-year period, with obviously improving conditions apparently resulting.

It might be quite another to have eight full years (including the last year of Hoover) in which the government spent billions more every year than it took in, with recurring periods of recession and mild improvement. Especially as during the eight years the national debt had been increased until it is now dangerously close to the legal limit of forty-five billion dollars.

* * *

THERE seems to be every prospect that Roosevelt's hopes with respect to increased federal revenues will be gratified. It is true that customs duties are decreasing rapidly, and will continue to decrease if the war lasts. But it is also true that, due partly to war orders, general business is improving.

This will not only mean an enormous increase in corporation income taxes — the government takes 18 cents tax of every dollar any fair-sized corporation makes, and slightly less, down to 16½ cents, for each dollar of the small concerns. It will mean also heavily increased individual income taxes. For if business is good all the security holders get more coupons and dividends, and the professional men will have better earnings, not to mention better collections.

It is on the spending side that real difficulty impends. It will be simple enough to cut the budget estimates. That has often happened, even under Roosevelt. Notably in the first fiscal year of his administration. But it is dangerous to rely on that.

The key will come not when the first appropriation bills are passed, but when the last deficiency bills appear on Capitol Hill. It would also be well to look out for emergencies which require heavy additional spending, and hence are not to be included in the regular budget.

Timely Editorial

The Worm Turns.

Dr. John M. Harmon, physical director at Boston university, is among the first to attempt to pay off the "overemphasis on athletics" fanatics in their own kind. Dr. Harmon made a speech the other night in which he deplored the "overemphasis on studies" which, he said, is driving students to nervous breakdowns and insanity.

This might be the seed of a mighty movement which can be said to have reached first base when some organization as formidable as the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching begins printing annual reports of the ravages made by study on young men in college.

Detailed accounts of young prodigies bribed by scholarships to attend Yale and Princeton, descriptions of Phi Beta Kappa members screaming in padded cells and medical reports showing the appalling results of overstudy could bolster up the case for mens sana in corpore sano. It ought to make fascinating reading. — Baltimore Sun.

"We Are Not Alone."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THROW a pebble in a pool—watch its circles widening. Yes, I know that ancient axiom carries whiskers, but it still packs a powerful wallop. Ever stop to consider how true it is? Ever realize that you can't do a thing—or abstain from doing a thing—without affecting the whole human race?

There is no such thing as a "private" life or act. Everything we do touches everyone else. WE ARE NOT ALONE. Four small words, but nine-tenths of our human tragedy hinges on them. No, I'm not preaching. Just recalling some of the widening circles I've seen myself. Men broken and shamed . . . women hard and embittered . . . children turned into warped weaklings . . . because sometime, somewhere, some one sneered or raged or failed to understand. And yet, not once in a million times was the viciousness deliberately planned.

There was Jessica Newcome, for instance, who never knowingly did a wicked deed, yet maimed and mangled all her family by her monstrous yet unwitting cruelty. You'll be meeting her soon in Paul Muni's new play, titled with those same four words—"WE ARE NOT ALONE" (Warner Bros.) Never has Paul Muni been in a more lovable role than that of Dr. Newcome—"The Little Doctor."

But here's any odds you want that you'll hate Jessica, his wife (Flora Robson) as you've hated few women on the screen and yet, at the same time, pity her. For she isn't a conscious or deliberate devil, this cold, rather stupid woman. Nor is there a melodramatic setting. Here's a plain, middle-class home such as you and I know, and a plain, middle class family. A gentle, generous man . . . a sensitive little lad . . . a fragile, terrified girl . . . a conventional, self-righteous wife and mother whose limited mind is unable to understand any of their talents or necessities.

Just another family, like yours or mine—that's what makes this film hit you right where you live. For you, at times, have been just as stupid with those you love as Jessica was. And you've known "well meaning" mothers who failed their husbands and children as tragically as Jessica did.

Nightmare plots—you've seen them often enough—spun out of the fantastic pipe dreams of some Hollywood script writer. But here's a nightmare that wasn't spun . . . that grew naturally, inevitably, from human blundering. An innocent man and woman walking to the scaffold because a bewildered child jumbled two bottles! But that wasn't the real reason. Nobody saw the real reason. Nobody realized that it lay, far and far before, in trivial acts which everyone brushed aside . . . in complacent stupidity which everyone took for granted. In circles that widened.

WE ARE NOT ALONE. Here is one of the most tragic warnings that ever quivered across a film. Never are we alone in our foolishness, our malice or our fear. Everything that we have or do or are is shared for good or evil.

"YOU ARE NOT ALONE!" Because evil spreads out and out, death comes to the Little Doctor and Leni, the lovely, frightened girl—a ghastly death which neither deserved. But comfort came with that death. For if they had not been alone in this muddled life, neither were they alone in the darkness. God was there.

WE ARE NOT ALONE. We are bound, by each act, to every human being. But we are also bound to God. His love and mercy go endlessly on and on, after the circles of evil are still.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Abraham's Bosom."

An old saying has it that there is no leaping from Delilah's lap into Abraham's bosom.

One cannot, that is to say, lead a low life on earth—and look forward to anything but a hot time in the hereafter.

Abraham's bosom, symbolically the destination of the blessed after they have departed this earth, has achieved figurative usage for undisturbed peace and happy repose.

Originating in biblical times from the custom of inviting a friend to pillow his head on one's bosom, the phrase was perpetuated by its use in the Scriptures in Luke xvi. 2, where it is written:

"And it came to pass that the beggar Lazarus died and was carried by the angles to Abraham's bosom."

As Others See It

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

KANSAS-BORN, Michigan-trained Harold D. Smith, 41, is a quiet, round-faced, pipe-puffing little man with horn-rimmed glasses and, he says, "a whale of a job." He must prepare now, for the congress that meets in January, estimates of Uncle Sam's income and expenses for the fiscal year that begins next July.

This year Budget Director Smith's task is doubly difficult, because President Roosevelt, while planning to ask Congress for an extra $500,000,000 for the Army and Navy, hopes to pare the annual federal deficit from a current $3,500,000,000 to around $2,000,000,000 for 1940-41.

Can that be done without boosting taxes?

Lend-spend advocate, Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, recently urged meeting additional expenses with higher taxes. But he "did not speak for the treasury," retorted that department's business-appeasing undersecretary, John W. Hanes.

And Senate Finance Chairman Harrison, noting increased revenue from better business, then opined that a bit of economizing might enable congress to duck a tax bill at the coming session.

Fiscal Surgery.

With the U. S. defense costs already averaging $14 a year per capita, however, Mr. Roosevelt has suggested it's time for the country to ponder this question: Should the emergency defense program be financed through borrowing, which would add more millions to the public debt, or on a pay-as-you-go basis by some new form of tax?

This week, before the president returned to Washington from his Thanksgiving holiday at Warm Springs, Ga., budgeter Smith flew down for a conference, then reported: "We continued the operations on the budget . . . taking out a few appendices."

Among the most compelling reasons for such surgery were these twin facts:

1. Deficit spending, though not invented by the New Deal, has almost doubled the national debt since Herbert Hoover left the White House;
2. That debt, now $41,286,000, is within about a year—at Uncle Sam's present rate of taxing and spending—of the legal limit, $45,000,000,000.

"If the boys are going to eat," says Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, congress is going to have to do something.

At Home

Kuhn Convicted.

"Set an example to the world," the defense attorney urged, "by showing that although we detest Nazism, Hitlerism and the principles of the Bund, we still in America stand up and give a man a fair trial." Argued the prosecutor: "Kuhn is not on trial for un-Americanism. He is charged with being a common thief."

As such, Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, was found guilty by a New York jury this week of swiping $1,217 from the Bund—$717 to move furniture around the country for Mrs. Florence Camp (to whom he occasionally wired "love and kisses") and $500 that he said he paid to a lawyer but which the lawyer said he never got.

Kuhn's chief defense had been that the Bund was operated on the "leadership principle"; that, as leader, he owned Bund funds — therefore couldn't steal them.

* * *

Pomp and Circumstance.

Ermine, chinchilla and jewels glistened as usual against the red plush of the "diamond horseshoe." And the music—Verdi's "Simon Boccanegra"—played second-fiddle, as usual, to the 4,000 spectators who jammed New York's airy old Metropolitan Opera house last Monday night for the season's opener.

One joyous patron turned cartwheels in the bar. Another clogdanced in the foyer during an aria. Standees waited 17 hours to see the show—and sideshows.

Abroad

Finland's Plight.

The war of words, which Russia had been carrying on against Finland since early November, culminated this week in invasion of the small country by Red forces, with attacks from land, sea and air.

Valiant resistance was offered but little hope was seen for the Finns if superior power was to determine the issue.

By Thursday night the Finnish cabinet had resigned, in the hope of others finding a way to save their country from destruction, and it was announced yesterday that Finland had no intention of surrendering, that the new government was being formed for the sole purpose of effecting national unity and attempting to reopen negotiations with Russia. Efforts to effect an armistice were included in early plans.

* * *

War and Scholars.

Came war, lights were switched off in most German universities. With only half a dozen open now, such famed institutions as Heidelberg and Freiburg are gathering cobwebs. Medical students, 'tis said, are pinch-diagnosing for surgeons sent to the front. But instruction in chemistry and engineering marches on at double-quick.

News From Poland.

In German-occupied Poland, now, a Jew may be put to death for going out at night without a special permit or for failure to wear a yellow armband. "In case of extenuating circumstances," says the Nazi decree, "a money fine of unlimited size or imprisonment, or both, may be adjudged."

Labor

Big Fellows Get Together.

The longest, most expensive labor dispute in automotive history—Chrysler Corp. vs. CIO's United Auto Workers—had cost the company an estimated $100,000,000 in lost sales, by this week, and its men $15,000,000 in lost wages. And besides 58,000 workers directly affected, 92,000 had been made idle in allied industries.

At that point, Chrysler President K. T. Keller and CIO Vice President Philip Murray took over the negotiations directly. In a single day's session, with federal labor conciliator James F. Dewey, they broke the 54-day Detroit deadlock. Immediate action was taken to resume production.

* * *

Dock Dispute.

CIO ship clerks laid down their pads and pencils three weeks ago and began picketing 30 state-owned, privately operated San Francisco piers in an effort to enforce their demands in negotiations for a new contract.

Business groups brought pressure to break the tieup. Mayor Rossi complained to President Roosevelt about CIO Director Harry Bridges. And the Associated Farmers yelped, this week, that produce growers were "getting caught in the middle."

Gov. Culbert L. Olson thereupon named a commission to look into "an intolerable situation," and considered having the state run the harbor.

* * *

Strike Off.

Movie business teetered on the brink of a nation-wide tieup, last week-end, as Hollywood producers pondered a union demand of 10% more pay for 23,000 studio technicians. Finally the companies capitulated—but stipulated that the boost was good only till next February, when the whole situation will be reviewed.

QUOTES

Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, German consul general at San Francisco: "I don't like the Bund."

Prof. Charles A. Kraus, president of the American Chemical society: "There isn't any such thing as a death ray."

Rep. Martin Dies: "It is a shameful situation to find the agents of Stalin in . . . key positions in our government."

People

Basket Man.

One winter, 48 years ago, Jim Naismith, a young Y. M. C. A. instructor at Springfield, Mass., set out to devise a clean, hard game that could be played indoors. He put two peach baskets on a floor and had nine-boy teams try—with a bounce-pass attack—to drop a ball into them. Later he elevated the baskets, reduced the number of players and drew up rules. Many of his rules still stand in the game of basketball, played by millions. This week, at 78, Dr. Naismith died. He had been athletic director and director-emeritus at the University of Kansas since 1903.

* * *

Angel Face.

To finance a fight on tuberculosis, thousands of Americans each year buy millions of penny Christmas seals. The 32nd annual sale began this week. On the red, white and blue seal—designed by Artist Rockwell Kent—is an angel's head. Of a critic who complained that the strong-lined drawing "doesn't look very much like an angel to me," Kent asked: "Have you ever seen an angel?"

Agriculture

Chicago Show.

Canada is a great one for holding farm fairs. But this winter's have been called off because of war. So Canadians sent the most purebred horses, cattle, hogs and sheep ever—more than 500, worth $1,000,000—to the 40th annual International Live Stock Exposition, which opened in Chicago this week-end for an eight-day run. And American entries from 34 states brought the total to a record 13,322.

* * *

Amish Move.

Land in Pennsylvania's fabulously fertile Lancaster County is getting too expensive for the thrifty, plain-garbed Amish. Says Pastor John F. Stoltzfus, of the village of Bird-in-Hand: "We can no longer afford to give farms to our children and build barns for them." So the Amish, whose German forefathers sought religious freedom in this country when it still belonged to England, are planting a new colony on run-down Maryland farms near Washington.

THEATERS

"Another Thin Man."

That popular screen couple, "Mr. and Mrs. Thin Man," personified by William Powell and Myrna Loy, are back again in the latest adventures of the series, titled, "Another Thin Man," beginning today at the Ohio theater. Powell once again enacts the unperturbed and debonair Nick Charles who takes his sleuthing lightly but proves himself to be as much of a master-mind as the grestest of Scotland Yard. In addition to his sleuthing Powell also offers domestic comedy with his wife, Nora, (Myrna Loy), and a new character, "Thin Man, jr.," eight-month-old William Poulsen.

* * *

"Disputed Passage."

Another of Lloyd C. Douglas' well-known stories, "Disputed Passage," comes to the Madison theater today, with a cast which includes Dorothy Lamour. Akim Tamiroff and John Howard. "Disputed Passage" is the story of men in white, and shows a great conflict between two types of doctors: the romantic young man with a taste for life as well as medicine, and the hardened unsentimental old surgeon who believes a marriage to pure science is enough. The other half of the bill is the comedy team, Laurel and Hardy, in "The Flying Deuces."

* * *

"These Glamour Girls."

"These Glamour Girls" opens at the Ritz theater with Lew Ayres and Lana Turner co-starred for their second picture. It is filmed against a college background with neither a fullback nor a cheer leader in the entire yarn. Miss Turner is a taxi dancer who invades the university when Ayres, on a spree, invites her to a traditional "house party." When she arrives Ayres has forgotten he invited her, but her battle of wits with the subdeb glamour girls of Park Avenue, and how she bests them to walk off with all the honors, makes an interesting picture.

* * *

"Tarzan Finds a Son!"

With Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan in the featured roles they created on the screen, "Tarzan Finds a Son!" opens Sunday at the Majestic theater, with five-year old John Sheffield as Tarzan, jr. The screen newcomer swings through the vines with Weismuller, swims with him underwater, and rides Baby Bee, smallest baby elephant in the United States. Also on the bill is "Conspiracy," the story of an American enmeshed in the grip of a relentless dictatorship. The cast includes Allan Lane, Linda Hayes and Robert Barrat.

* * *

"U-Boat 29."

Inaugurating their plan of bringing three complete changes of program to Mansfield theater-goers each week, the Park theater management today announced the showing of "U Boat 29," beginning Sunday. The cast includes Conrad Veidt, Valerie Hobson and Sebastian Shaw, with Veidt cast as an enemy submarine commander. The other half of the double-feature bill is Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon in "The Cowboy and the Lady." In this picture Gary Cooper, for the first time in an otherwise varied screen career, sings.

Bible Club Has Party at Mrs. Hoover's Home

Mrs. George Hoover was hostess for the annual Christmas party of the Neighborhood Bible club yesterday afternoon at her home on Penn avenue. Mrs. A. B. M. White was in charge of the devotions. During the program, Mrs. J. R. Turner appeared in costume to give the reading, "The Innkeeper's Regret." Mrs. Harold Garrison then gave, "My Mother's Christmas," and another reading, "The Silversmiths at Ethesus," by Mrs. Turner concluded the program.

Mrs. Ray Swigart, Mrs. C. E. Frankeberger and Mrs. D. W. Cummins were named to purchase Bibles for children at the Friendly House at Christmas time. After the business and program, the group played Bible contests.

Mrs. Swigart presided at the table when tea was served. Tall candles and colorful holiday appointments decorated the table. Mrs. H. L. Cashell and Mrs. Jacob Sheriff were guests of the afternoon.

Mrs. D. L. Arehart has invited the club members to her home, 710 West Third street, for the next meeting, Jan. 5. Mrs. C. H. Henkel will lead the study, and Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins will have the devotional readings at that time.

Red Cross Group Has Luncheon

Members of Red Cross Production Unit No. 1 met for luncheon yesterday with Mrs. Fred Elder, 82 Arlington avenue, and Mrs. Ray Painter and Mrs. Lloyd Paste were the associate hostesses. Knitting was done for the Red Cross following the luncheon by eight members and one guest, Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain.

Arrangements were discussed for the annual Christmas party for members and their husbands. Mrs. Charles Arbaugh, Mrs. Leopold Adams and Mrs. Walter Becker are in charge. The affair will be held Dec. 21 and will be a dinner.

Marriage Meddlers

LILLIAN went into quick action when she heard me tell Edith Fairfax I was sure Dicky would agree with me that she need not leave the art magazine which she and Dicky owned in partnership.

"Listen, everybody!" she said. "Why decide anything now? You girls are all wrought up over all this mess, and neither of you is in any condition to look at anything sanely. We haven't time to go into anything now anyway. We must start for the farm as soon as we possibly can. We have reports to make to the Chief that can't wait. There's only one thing. Is there anything vital that has to be done at the magazine?"

"Nothing that the bookkeeper, the typist and the office boy can't handle until I can get up again," Dicky answered promptly.

"Good!" Lillian said. "Then that's that, and we can get going for the farm. How about luggage? Madge and I have our traps with us. What about you, Ede?"

"If I could stop at my hotel for about five minutes—or less—" Edith said hesitatingly.

"Of course," Lillian said briskly.

"Well, then, there you are!" Lillian's voice fairly dripped sweet reasonableness. "I'm sure we shant be tied up so very long. Tonight's work means that the Chief's finally going to gather the last threads into his hands, and then we'll all be free to get back to our normal way of living. Plenty of time then to talk over things, and settle what you want to do. How about it, Harry, ready to go to work on Madge and me?"

Harry sprang at her question and crossed to me.

"How about it, Lady Fair?" he asked, smiling. "Ready for me to go to work on the grease paint?"

"More than ready," I said with a smile. "This is a very artistic job you did, but it suffocates me!"

"It's plain to be seen you're not a real trouper," he taunted, "or you wouldn't kick if you had to sleep in it."

"Never mind the persiflage, old dear," his wife adjured him laughingly, "but hurry up and get that make-up and wig off Madge and then tackle me. You have to shed your own mask, too, you know, and we simply must get started."

But I could not resist a quick query.

"What about those people downstairs?" I asked.

"They're safely on their way to a nice secure place where they'll have time to meditate on their sins, and will have no chance to plan any further devilment," Lillian responded. "Now, that's positively the last question I'm going to answer. We must get going."

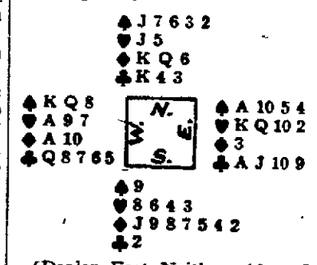
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE CULPRIT ESCAPES

PERPETRATORS of bridge crimes don't always get properly punished. Sometimes the culprit escapes, perhaps through confessing his crime and then getting a break of luck on top of it, so that his opponents suffer instead of he for his perfidy.

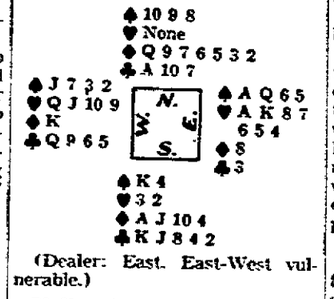


(Dealer East Neither side vulnerable.)

East bid 1-Club here and West, who knew his partner as a player addicted to short-suit Club bids, responded with 2-No Trumps. When East now bid 3-No Trumps, South stuck in the absurd call of 4-Diamonds. This only egged West on with his big hand, and he went to 6-Clubs.

North was only pleased to double this, although, as it develops, an overtrick can be made for a score of 1,140 points. South now realized he had probably caused trouble and so sacrificed at 6-Diamonds, which West doubled. The latter put up the best possible defense, leading the ace and another diamond, but the contract was set only five tricks, worth 900 points.

Monday's Problem.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

If East bids 1-Heart, South 2-Clubs, West 2-Hearts and North 3-Diamonds, why should East not now bid Spades?

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Dec. 3.

Sunday's horoscope is a favorable one for social, affectional, group and organization activities, but these may be made inharmonious and ineffectual by overindulgence, recklessness, or impulsive words and deeds. Be particularly careful not to offend superiors or elders, and also be discreet with all correspondence and other writings.

Those whose birthday it is may have a very lively and prosperous year in domestic, social and affectional matters, or in those forms of business relating to them. Artistic and musical affairs thrive, but writings are under an adverse sign. Impetuous, rash and tumultuous moods are perilous, particularly where elders, superiors or employers are involved. Keep calm and poised.

For Monday, Dec. 4.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of extremely sudden and surprising events, probably of far-reaching effect on the future destiny. Events of major importance bound into being with the force and unexpectedness of a whirlwind. These make for definite progress or unprecedented prosperity, perhaps in connection with large corporations, diplomatic, political or fraternal organizations.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a sudden avalanche of events, descending with precipitancy and breath-taking surprise. These events may have far-reaching developments, making for unexpected progress and prosperity, with corporations, secret bodies, political or diplomatic groups figuring conspicuously. There is hint of a bequest or other windfall in this swift-moving visitation.

By OSCAR RUHL
(News-Journal Sports Editor.)

ORGANIZATION of the Downtown Coaches' Association is virtually complete. . . . Final touches to the structure will be applied at 8 p. m. Monday when a meeting is held at the Chamber of Commerce. . . . The purpose of the organization has been told and re-told . . . Its primary purpose is to promote interest in the various sports activities at Mansfield high school. . . . Basketball, track, swimming and wrestling as well as football will receive cooperation from the "Coaches" . . The organization is being set up along lines similar to the Massillon Boosters' club, which is probably the most active club of its kind in the state. . . .

* * *

Sports Lovers Sought By Club.

ALL of the enthusiastic sports lovers of the community will be sought for membership in the club promoted for a better and more wholesome athletic program for the youth of today. . . . Many get the mistaken idea that the Downtown Coaches club is an organization consisting only of football addicts. . . . Now it is an all-sports organization, which brings together men in the community who are interested in athletics for the purpose of clarifying differences of opinions and to lend a hand to all legitimate up-building sports programs. . . . To develop sportsmanship through the community, encourage and foster clean, wholesome athletic competition, assist indirectly worthy boys in securing an education, cooperate with local organizations in promoting benefit contests, either by participation or by using influence to secure success of same, promote good fellowship and, by exemplary life, to inspire young boys to live a clean, healthy and sane life.

Downtown Coaches Not 'Devastating.'

DOWNTOWN Coaches clubs are not "devastating" groups, as some imagine. . . . They are just the opposite. . . . It may be true that organizations may have members who have a tendency to criticize the coach, managers and players, but, fortunately, they are in the minority. . . . These critics are sought for membership in these clubs so that they can be turned into helpful and constructive personalities in the community. . . . The Mansfield club lists three reasons why every sports-minded person should be a member of the organization. . . . First, it will give you a wider local acquaintance among athletic fans; second, there is nothing more enjoyable than talking athletics with athletic friends; third, you will be able to lend a helping hand in the promotion of sports.

Collects Seven Straight Strikes In 262 Game; Scores 671 Series.

ART HILBORN wrecked two season marks in last night's session of the Moose Home league at the Meder Recreation alleys.

Hilborn's 671 total constituted one record and his opening 262 game the other. In running up his 262 opening game, Hilborn collected seven straight strikes. He followed with a 186 and finished with a 223 as he paced his No. 5 team to a pair of wins over No. 6, led by Farrell Hipp's 609.

Brig Young also contributed a fine score to his No. 2 team's total when he plastered the uprights for a 645, which included games of 230, 179 and 236. No. 2 took two tilts from No. 1, led by Eddie Meder's 606.

No. 4 won team scoring honors with a 2470, but it was good for only one win over No. 3. No. 8 added two wins at the expense of No. 7 in the other match.

Ernest Case closed with a 243 game as he compiled a 610 total to pace the scoring in the Ohio Brass league. Case's team won three games from the Insulators.

Frank Klohs was next high with a 606 count, which included a 230. He led the Engineers to a high 2505 and a clean sweep over the Hard Iron team.

FIGHT TO SAVE LEG OF INJURED GRIDDER

LOCK HAVEN, Pa. —(U.P.)— Harry N. Dunkle, University of North Carolina sophomore fullback, was in a hospital today where physicians fought to save his left leg in which a blood vessel was ruptured during Thursday's game against the University of Virginia. The case was similar to that in which Don Herring, Princeton lineman, earlier in the season suffered a leg fracture, necessitating amputation of his leg.

SARKKINEN HONORED

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Esco Sarkkinen, who played a brilliant season at end for the Big Ten champion Ohio State university Buckeyes, was selected by the New York Sun for the left end position on its All-American football team today.

Defensive Play Features Win

First-Stringers Hold Losers to Eight Points Until Subs Enter Game In Final Period.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

WHILE insisting that considerable room remains for improvement, Coach Vern Hoffman did not judge his new crop of Tygers too harshly after its 1939-40 debut last night.

"But we'll be ready when the going gets tough," Hoffman declared after his Mansfield high cagers turned out a 28 to 19 victory over the Alumni basketeers in the Tyger lair.

There were only a handful of spectators on hand for the inaugural, and they did see a promising first-string club made up of Gene Miller, Gene Rudolph, Russ Beer, Bill Herpich and Don Rose, but Hoffman was far from satisfied with the reserve strength.

* * *

Holding a 24 to 8 lead going into the final period, Hoffman substituted freely, but the majority of the starters were back in the ball game before the finish.

* * *

The combinations Hoffman inserted to rest the starting quintet in the fourth quarter not only failed to hold the ex-Tygers, but lost many scoring opportunities because of sloppy ball handling.

Particularly impressive in the No. 1 triumph of the new season were Herpich and Rose, the guards. Beer, however, did a fine job of rebound work in the first half.

One of the major faults displayed by the Tygers in their inaugural was their failure to take advantage of open shots. This was particularly true in the first half when they consistently passed out of short shots in front of the basket.

They attempted many difficult shots from the sides of the court after throwing away scoring chances.

Despite this fault, Hoffman's new edition of Tygers completely outclassed the grads in the first half. The bengal squad obtained a 6 to 0 lead in the first period and did not permit the Alumni to tally until the second quarter when Jack Lyons dribbled into the bucket for a set-up shot.

Tommy Scott's goal on a "sleeper" accounted for the only other points secured by the graduended with the Tygers holding a 12 to 4 advantage.

* * *

Mansfield rang up 12 points in the third frame to take an unsurmountable lead. They went into the final quarter holding a 24 to 8 lead.

* * *

With a shifted lineup operating in the fourth stanza, the Alumni, led by Noel Morgan, found the basket regularly.

However, the grads found the lead obtained in the third period too large to overcome.

Miller and Rudolph led the Tygers in the scoring column with 10 and nine points, respectively, and Morgan was high for the losers with six points.

In the preliminary games, the Mansfield reserve teams defeated First Lutheran, 22 to 19, and First Presbyterian, 38 to 25. Bob Winbigler tallying 17 points in the latter game.
